Mrs. Ada Brown, daughter of J. Entwistle the founder of the community, is shown above receiving a bouquet of flowers from her grand-daughter Lynn Brown during the Centennial Reunion festivities held in Entwistle last weekend. Mrs. Brown's daughters Mrs. Ann Clark and Mrs. Barbara Storms are seated on either side of her in the photo

Centennial Reunion at Entwistle Well Attended

Former residents of Entwistle from far and wide were in the village in large numbers last weekend for the Centennial Reunion. Among those who returned for the festivities were people now living in the United States and distant parts of Canada.

Activities of the weekend started Saturday afternoon with a baseball game followed by a steak barbeque in the community hall starting at 4:00 p.m.

Band to Resume Regular Practices

The Drayton Valley-Evansburg Band is resuming practices after a summer recess.

The first meeting will be held Tuesday, August 15th and every Tuesday thereafter. Practices are held alternately at Evansburg and Drayton Valley.

More members are required for the band, including beginners. Anyone interested is asked to contact Al McKillop at 542-3977, Drayton Valley, or Guy Dompnier at 727-3885, Evansburg.

A large crowd turned out for the barbeque and entertainment that followed the official opening at 8:30 p.m. The hall was packed with diners enjoying delicious barbecued steak with the overflow gathering in the Elks Hall to meet socially.

A feature of the entertainment in the Elks Hall was a comprehensive collection of photographs, papers and mementos that told the history of Entwistle and district from earliest days to the present. The display of photos attracted a large number of people and old timers of the area also gathered in the hall to renew acquaintances.

Mr. N.R. Gylander, a long-time village resident, was master of ceremonies for the official welcome and extended greetings from the community to the gathering.

Dancing rounded out the evening for the adults. Events for children on Saturday included a wiener roast and campfire and a teen sock-hop in the school gym at 8 p.m.

Events on Sunday included a pancake breakfast and a pot-luck dinner at the Pembina River Provincial Park.

T.B. Mobile Clinic Here Next Week

The mobile TB Chest X-ray Unit will be in Drayton Valley from Wednesday, August 16th until Monday, August 21st.

Residents of Drayton Valley, Cynthia, Round Valley, Easyford, Rocky Rapids and Violet Grove are invited to attend the clinic. If you have not been canvassed you are asked to attend even though you do not have an appointment.

The service, sponsored jointly by the Department of Public Health and the Alberta Tuberculosis Association Christmas Seal Fund, is a source of early discovery not only of unsuspected tuberculosis but many other abnormalities including: heart irregularities, tumors, etc.-- and is especially valuable in view of the alarming increase in the incidence of lung cancer, emphysema, pleurisy, etc. which the chest X-ray will reveal considerably in advance of symptoms becoming obvious.

Clinic hours while the unit is located in Drayton Valley are as follows: Wednesday, August 16th, 1:30 to 5:00 p.m. 6:30 to 8:45 p.m.; Thursday, August 17, 1:30 to 5:00 p.m., 6:30 to 8:45 p.m.; Friday, August 18, 1:30 to 5:00 p.m., 6:30 to 8:45 p.m.; Monday, August 21, 1:30 to 5:00 p.m.

Brazeau Gas Plant Planned

Two new gas processing plants are planned for construction in western Alberta by Hudson Bay Oil and Gas Company Limited.

One of the proposed plants will be located on the Brazeau River west of Drayton Valley and the other will process gas from the Kaybob field 50 miles northwest of Whitecourt.

Company officials say the size of the plants will probably be decided within a month.

Plans to raise the dam at the Brazeau storage and power development 25 feet have forced a change in the proposed location of the Brazeau gas plant. The raised lake level will flood the original site.

Company officials say the expanse of muskeg along the river provides few suitable locations.

In the Kaybob South field, a recently-completed discovery well has extended the gas field. The field's gas reserves will now be re-evaluated to determine the most logical plant location.

Both plants will include sulphur recovery units. Processed gas will be delivered by Alberta Gas Trunk Line Co. Ltd. and Alberta Natural Gas Co. to Alberta and Southern Gas Co. Ltd. for sale on California markets.

Cavalcade Held Over Weekend

Several families from Drayton Valley took part in the annual David Thompson Cavalcade to the Kootenay Plains west of Nordegg last weekend.

The Central Alberta Chamber of Commerce had a full weekend of activities scheduled but how they fared weather wise is not known as we prepare to go to press Tuesday.

Change Made at Magnolia P.O.

A change in postmistresses at the Magnolia Post Office was effected July 31st with Mrs. Grace Anderson taking over from Mrs. Cecelia MacDougall. Jack Bright, Drayton Valley Postmaster, conducted the transfer.

Mrs. Anderson is a former Drayton Valley resident.

D. V. Highlights

BY MRS EDITH DEBY

Mr. Fred Haggerty, a resident of this district for over 30 years, died August 4th. Mr. Haggerty is survived by his wife and four sons, and five daughters. Our sympathy is extended to Mrs. Haggerty and her family.

Debbie Magee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Magee was a guest in the Edward Hill home at the beginning of the holidays and took Kathy Hill home with her to Edmonton to enjoy Klondike Days.

Miss Helen Duckett is away to Vancouver Island for a two week holiday where she will visit an aunt. She is accompanied by her cousin and two other girl friends.

Mrs. Case is spending part of this summer with a daughter, Mrs. Nieckle, at Hoadley.

Mr. Nels Johnson had the misfortune to injure his hip when he fell in the yard of his farm recently. Mr. Johnson was alone at the time so it was most fortunate that his granddaughter, Brenda Johnson, and her friend Colleen Beckett, happened along when they did. One girl stayed to do what she could for his comfort while the other pedalled away furiously on her bike to summon help. Mr. Johnson was taken to an Edmonton hospital.

Mrs. Emily Duckett is attending the Baptist Bible Camp in Olds.

When Voyageur Dave Ellery returns in September he will be welcomed by a lovely new baby daughter.

Mrs. Bouffard and Miss Bouffard attended the wedding of their grand-daughter and niece, Miss Yvonne Kreklau, in Clover Dale, B.C. Miss Kreklau and Mr. Barry Duncan were married on July 22nd. They will make their home in Vancouver.

If you are a "thing" saver you will sympathize with my practice of saving all the post cards sent to me. The latest one is from the Zolmers and shows "The Crookedest Street in the World". I'm sure it is also among the most beautiful. Situated on one of San Francisco's steep hills it winds its way from side to side and the curves are a mass of flowers. The Zolmers are enjoying themselves hugely in spite of high temperatures that prevail in some of the spots they have visited.

Glenna Horvath, who saved the lives of her five younger brothers and sisters when fire destroyed their home on April 30, has been awarded a citation for bravery by Associated Special Investigators and Police International Incorporated. Cpl. Alfred Johnson, A.S.I. was sponsor.

Mr. and Mrs. M.M. Hamilton of Alcomdale, are visiting in the neighbourhood.

Mrs. Ron Stewart and her mother, Mrs. Leslie Herndon, have gone to Stoughton, Saskatchewan, to visit Mrs. Noel Hallett, nee Jean Herndon. The Stewarts live in Stewart, B.C.

Folk Mass

St. Anthony's Church will be holding a Folk Mass next Sunday, August 13 at 9:30 a.m. All teenagers are invited to take part in this unique experience.

Kenny Sanford has spent some of his holidays with his aunt and uncle Mr. and Mrs. John Oliver and his cousin Harold. Harold will spend a few days in Edmonton before school starts.

Two of the many district old timers who attended the Centennial Reunion at Entwistle last weekend were Mr. and Mrs. W. Anderson of Magnolia who are shown above. Both nearing 90, they have lived in the area since 1909, immigrating from Sweden to Canada with a brief stay in the U.S. before homesteading here.

Farm Numbers Continue Decline

The number of farms in Alberta decreased from 73,212 in 1961 to 69,411 in 1966, or by 5.2 per cent. These figures were taken from census reports issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

R.E. English, Statistician with the provincial Economics Division, points out that the Bureau classifies farms on the basis of income. Farms with receipts of $2,500 or more a year are classified as commercial farms, while small scale, part-time, and residential farms receiving less than $2,500 from the sale of agricultural products are considered non-commercial operations.

Changes in farm numbers, based on economic classification, as described above, are shown by the following figures.

Commercial Farms in 1961 numbered 45,203 and in 1966 48,971 with a +8.3% change.

Other farms numbered 28,009 in 1961 and 20,440 in 1966 showing a -27.0% change. Total farms in 1961 numbered 73,212 and in 1966 69,411 showing a -5.2% of change.

The decrease in farm numbers between 1961 and 1966 was less in the south than in other parts of the province. The reason for this situation, says Mr. English, is that the consolidation of farms to form economic units was begun in that area approximately 50 years ago. There are relatively few small holdings remaining.

The reduction in the number of small farms, accompanied by an increase in commercial farms, is most pronounced in the central and northern regions of Alberta. A 21 per cent increase in the number of commercial farms in the Peace River area is just about equalled by the 18.5 per cent decrease in small farms.

The following table illustrates the situation on a regional basis:

	COMMERCIAL FARMS			OTHER FARMS
	Number 1961	Number 1966	% Change	Number 1961	Number 1966	% Change

Nothing did more to shape the skills, habits and customs of Indian tribes than the food their people ate. In almost every tribe, a desire for regular supplies of meat prompted the men to strive for excellence as hunters, trappers or fishermen. But, depending on local circumstances, different tribes had different ways of keeping themselves fed: some tribes, predominantly meat-eaters, were obliged to be migrants, following their food supply as it moved around on the hoof. The Chipewyan Indians, for instance, kept constantly on the move, following the caribou around a region of the northland east of the Mackenzie River. Similarly, the Assiniboines roamed the southern Canadian prairies on a continuous hunt for the migratory buffalo. The Micmacs in the Maritimes spent their winters in the woods hunting moose, caribou and porcupine. In the warmer months, they lived at the seashore gathering shellfish, catching fish and hunting seals.

The Hurons and Iroquois relied mainly on planted crops. They managed to lead comparatively settled (though not necessarily peaceful) lives. While they roamed to some extent as hunters in search of secondary food sources, they maintained the same village sites year after year. When they did move it was usually because the soil around their village was exhausted or because some enemy had burned their crops.

As hunters, trappers and fishermen, the Indians lacked some of the equipment and mobility of the white man--metal tools, firearms, and the wheel. But when allowance was made for these disadvantages, the most skillful Indians rated high indeed in all three pursuits. From childhood, the Indian boy became a shrewd student of nature, at least in every way that might help him in the hunt. By instruction and observation he soon grew to know the habits, instincts and life cycles of every species of game. Even without steel or gunpowder, the Indians contrived several pieces of hunting, trapping and fishing equipment more ingenious than anything invented in Europe.

Since the spear was generally ineffective against big game at large, herd animals such as buffalo and deer were usually driven into an enclosure and speared at close range. Sometimes advancing buffalo were killed by archers lying hidden in a shallow pit. Occasionally the hunters would stampede the buffalo over a cliff and finish off the injured survivors below with spears or clubs. In other regions caribou, moose or deer were driven into streams or inlets, where they were easily speared from canoes.

A large field of potatoes in blossom near Grand Falls, N.B.

Lengthy Process Involved in Producing New Potato Varieties

FREDERICTON--Looking for a quick way to make a name for yourself? Don't become a potato breeder then.

The problems he faces in trying to develop new kinds of potatoes to meet the demands of a fast-changing industry are tremendous.

It's almost a lifetime project for a scientist to develop a new potato variety and have it accepted by growers on a general basis.

Ten to 12 years will elapse from the time the first cross is made until the new variety is produced in quantity. Then, according to past performances, it takes 10 to 15 years before the new variety is fully accepted by the industry. This means that from beginning to general acceptance more than 20 years will elapse.

National headquarters for potato breeding is at the Canada Department of Agriculture's Research Station, Fredericton. Here a team of scientists carry out breeding and testing programs and provide services to other workers across Canada.

Every year 35,000 potato seedlings are planted--each one a potential new variety. But more likely than not, none of them will pass all the tests.

To make the grade, a new variety should outyield and have better disease resistance than existing varieties and at least equal existing varieties in quality.

This means that a potato breeder must know the yield capabilities of existing varieties and their ability to resist disease; he must be familiar with disease and pest problems over a wide area; he must have the means to measure quality; and he must be fully knowledgeable about the needs of a changing industry.

This sounds like a formidable task--and it would be for the man who tried to work alone. At Fredericton, they use the team approach.

The Station's potato breeding section has five potato breeders, headed by Dr. D.A. Young. And the section can draw on the knowledge of entomologists, soil scientists, and plant pathologists who are also on the station staff.

The potato breeding section has extensive test plot and greenhouse facilities and also the equipment and personnel to carry out exhaustive quality tests on new varieties.

But even with these modern tools, the potato breeder still faces sizable problems. Biggest of these is the potato itself.

Unlike wheat, for example, potatoes will not grow true to type from seed. The seeds are found in the green tomato-like berries that grow on the plant above ground. A single potato plant will often produce hundreds of seeds. But if you were to plant these seeds, you would get hundreds of different kinds of potato plants--most of them quite useless. (And being perverse, not all potato plants set seed anyway).

To grow potatoes true to a variety, you must take part of the plant rather than the seed. This creates difficulties for the plant breeder. A wheat breeder needs perhaps a hundred pounds of seed to plant an acre but the potato breeder needs a ton of tubers--20 times the weight and more than 20 times the bulk. An alfalfa breeder can carry the results of a year's breeding program in his brief case--potato breeder needs a warehouse to store his.

The dynamic nature of the potato industry causes some headaches too. A generation ago, potatoes were produced only for home table use. Today an increasing percentage of potatoes are being sold to processors to be turned into instant mashed potatoes, canned potatoes, frozen french fries, patties, or chips. Each of these products may require, and frequently do require, a different type of potato. The potato breeder must be aware of these needs and move as swiftly as he can to meet them.

The industry is changing in other ways too. Ten years ago most potatoes were harvested by a digger and handpicking. Today harvesters are being used increasingly and this means that growers must have potatoes that will break away from their tops easily. The modern potato must also be resistant to bruising, skinning and crushing. They must be able to stand up to passing over 150 feet of conveyors, to being dropped four or five times, and to the crushing weight of large storages where 35,000 barrels of potatoes are piled 25 feet high.

The list of problems confronting the breeder are almost endless. For example, different areas of the country need different varieties. And since Canada exports a very large quantity of seed potatoes breeders also have to know what these other countries want.

But the potato breeders have been meeting the challenge. Several varieties, introduced by the national breeding program, have found a place in the industry--Keswick, Avon, Hunter and Grand Falls.

Division Teachers Attend Banff ATA Conference

Three district teachers will devote a week of their summer vacation to the improvement of their professional skills, and to the upgrading of the efficiency of their ATA local. As delegates to the 19th annual Banff Conference of the ATA, they will attend one of four sessions to be held at the Banff School of Fine Arts during the week of August 14th.

Four general courses will be offered, along with a special seminar. Two committees will also be engaged in long-range education planning in the ATA's Project 1975. Those attending from Stony Plain will be Barry Richer of Lodgepole, Mr. C.S. Ibsen of Spruce Grove, and Claude May of Seba Beach.

The largest section consisting of delegates from 70 of the ATA's locals will be the Leadership Course. It is headed by Frank Hoskyn of Calgary, immediate past president of the Association. The course is designed to improve the local programs in inservice education for the membership, and to discuss and clarify the role of the provincial organization in relationship to the 18,000 members across the province. It offers a capsule look at the total operation of the provincial organization.

Under way at the same time is a specialized course in professional development, headed by K.W. Bride of the ATA staff. This course will examine the techniques of updating the programs of locals necessary if teachers are to keep abreast of the rapid changes in education theory and practice.

The teacher welfare course will give local delegates a look at the Alberta economy, and will discuss the techniques of collective bargaining. J.F. Berlando, coordinator of teacher welfare at Barnett House, will head this course. Consultants will be Dr. Eric Hanson, associate dean of graduate studies at the U. of A. and K.W. Pugh, Alberta's deputy minister of Labour.

About this time of year I get a number of people asking whether or not they have to blanch fruits and vegetables.

If you check your freezing manual, you will see that in the majority of cases, blanching is recommended. Some berries and other fruits do not require blanching but all of the vegetables do.

Why is blanching recommended? The chief reason is that fruits and vegetables contain enzymes which cause ripening and colour changes. Blanching stops the work of these chemicals so that the product does not continue to ripen while stored in your freezer. Secondly, blanching aids in maintaining good colour. Presumably, vegetables take on a "cured" taste after storage if not blanched. Many people will tell you they don't blanch and that their vegetables have superior flavour. If you want to prove this for yourself, try putting both blanched and unblanched vegetables in your freezer. Then remove a package of each at the end of 2, 4, 6, and 8 months intervals and compare flavour and texture. You'll know for sure next year.

Blanching does preserve colour--the lush green of peas, for example. To cook, add the frozen vegetables to boiling water and cook till just tender.

Freezing bulletins are available from my office.

FASHION CONSULTANT TO THE 160 SINGER CENTERS IN CANADA.

SEW IT in exotic hibiscus-splattered linen, a slithery lemon-meringue crepe or packable op-art jersey but sew it with a halter neck -- summer's smartest look! Cut-away armholes slip to a cross of straps at the back to show off your tan. A little spring of fullness falls from a high yoke. Slimming and swinging!

A LITTLE BIT OF PARIS. Add a dash of bizazzy to coats and jackets with a touch of embroidered ribbon, lace or rick rack, tacked over the join where facing meets lining.

THIS IS THE YEAR to be on the waiting list. Mothers-to-be can have a fling with fashion's wonderful, colourful new look -- THE TENT. You can even buy a non-maternity tent pattern, add extra seam allowance to let out later and swing along with the crowd. Don't hide in dull greys and dark navys. Indulge in some of those clashy brights and wild, psychedelic prints. You'll feel great! Just remember: keep trims and contrasts above bust level or at the hemline and please, NO hip belts.

SLIPPY SLIP-STRAPS? Put old-fashioned but wise strap guards in your creations . . . a real necessity with summer's cut-out necklines and cut-away armholes. Tack one end of a one and one half inch strip of seam binding to shoulder seam, turning under raw edges. Sew one part of a snap fastener to the free end and the mated half to shoulder seam towards neck.

MAKE A MINI part of your summer scene. To be worn wherever there's fun! The fabric? Anything from lace to canvas. The style? Very short. Cut-outs are usual and many sport bloomers or long-legged panties to match and protect your modesty. The question of skirts is divided as often as not. Newest playmate is the long tunic - jacket with military "fatigue" patch-pockets and brass-studded epaulettes - all in kahki drill cloth.

FOR ROMANTIC EVENINGS -- softly draped crepe in a heavenly shade of blue, cool and feminine. Easy to sew if its bonded and then no linings are needed. Fashion into a little smock shape that falls straight and free from a soft crush of yoke. Clusters of chalk-white bubbles at your ears complete the look. Elegant and ageless!

A.R.D.A. Plans Woodlot Survey

Extension of an ARDA sponsored woodlot and watershed survey was given approval by Alberta Agriculture Minister H.E. Strom, and Federal Forestry and Rural Development Minister Maurice Sauve.

The study, to be conducted primarily within the counties of Lacombe, Wetaskiwin and Ponoka, and used elsewhere in the province as required, will come under a 50-50 federal provincial cost sharing agreement costing $38,500 over the next three years.

The intent is to create usable wood products, control erosion, improve wildlife habitats and utilize lands now misused or laying idle.

Increased revenue to farmers by off-season employment is visualized in the production of pulp, plywood and some Christmas trees.

The project will be carried out by the Forest Management Branch, Alberta Forest Services, and where applicable, will be aided in the field by the Department of Agriculture.

There Was A Man

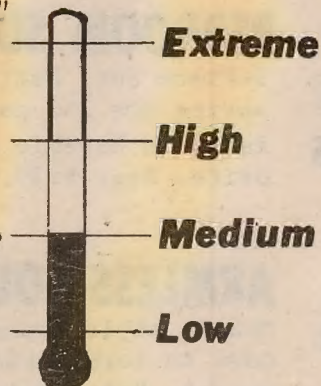

There was a man in our town,
And he had wondrous health;
But recklessly he squandered it,
Accumulating wealth.
And when he saw his health was gone,
With all his might and main
He squandered all the wealth he'd won
To get his health again.
And when with neither health nor wealth,
He in his coffin lay,
The preacher couldn't say a thing
Excepting, "Let us pray!"

A.I. Gaining In Canada

OTTAWA--More Canadian cows were bred artificially in 1966 than in any previous year according to the 12th annual report on artificial insemination just released by the CDA's Livestock Division.

The number so bred in 1966 amounted to 1,031,238--19 per cent of the country's cow population of 5,432,000 (2,762,000 dairy; 2,670,000 beef). The previous record was 1,000,160 in 1965.

Dairy cows bred with dairy semen numbered 730,614 compared with 704,650 in 1965. The number of dairy cows bred with beef semen declined to 99,354 from 99,814 in the previous year. Of all dairy calves registered in 1966, 61.5 per cent were sired artificially, the report notes.

Beef cows bred artificially from beef semen totaled 201,270--a number little changed from the previous year.

A.I. services were used in approximately 96,400 herds last year--1,889 fewer than in 1965. The decline reflects the general trend in Canada to fewer but larger herds.

FISHY STORY

While fishing one day, a man dropped his wallet into the lake.

He looked down and saw that a large carp had grabbed it in his mouth. Then another carp swam over and took it away. Suddenly there came a third carp which took it from the second.

The fisherman watched, fascinated. It's the first time he'd ever seen carp to carp walleting.
